Ans Sanyam means self-control or ability to control one's own senses or habits. A feeling of responsibility to nurture, protect and use the body correctly.

Q3 Explain that "Body is the instrument of I (Self)".

Ans "Body as the instrument of self" means that our physical body acts as a tool or medium through which our inner self, our thoughts, emotions & identity are expressed and experienced in the world.

The human being is the co-existence of 'I' & the body, and there is exchange of information between the two, i.e. 'I' & body exist together & are related. There is a flow of information from 'I' to the body & from body to the 'I'. We can make this distinction between the self & the body in three ways in terms of the needs, activities and the types of these two entities. All the needs of 'I', say respect, trust, etc. can be called as Happiness (Such) while the needs of body are physical facilities (Sukidha) like food. The two things are qualitatively different. There is no tolerance of quantity for the needs of 'I' as it is qualitative, while the needs of body are quantitative, & they are limited in quantity.

The activities of 'I' are activities like desire, thinking, selection, while the activities of body are activities like eating, breathing etc. The mode of interaction of 'I' includes knowing, assuming, recognizing & fulfilment. depends on recognition depends on assumption & assumption depends on knowing or not knowing (beliefs)

Human being	Self	Body
* Need	Happiness (Respect)	Physical facility
* Fulfilled by	Right understanding & Right feelings	Physiochemical things.
* Activities	Desire, thought, expectations Knowing, Attuning, Recognizing, Fulfilling Consciousness	Eating, walking Recognizing, Fulfilling Material.

Q4 Write the programs to ensure the health (Swasthya).

Ans Our present life style and conditionings are not very conducive to keep the body fit & therefore it is important to understand sanyama & swasthya correctly & maintain proper harmony with the body. As a proposal, we need to work for following few things.

(i) To understand & live with sanyam.

(ii) To understand & the self organization of the body and ensure health of the body.

(1) To understand & live with sanyam :- Sanyama implies that the self takes the responsibility for proper nurturing & right utilization of the body.

For this it is essential to understand the functioning of the body instrument. It is also essential to understand that this instrument has a limited life span & undergoes a pattern of growth & decay. The interaction of the self with the body has to be in consonance with the above objectives which are achieved through Sanyama.

(2) Understanding the self organization of the body & ensure health of the body:-

- (A) Nurturing of the body:- Proper food, Air, water etc. It is needed to make out the elements which make a complete food so that it requires nutrients & energy to the body. It can be said that food needed to be eaten only when we feel hungry. It should be taken with proper posture of the body & in right quantity.
- (B) Protection of the body:- The clothes we choose for protection need to be such that they ensure proper interaction of the body with the environment. Sun is required to ensure its proper functioning.
- (C) Right Utilization of the Body:- Right utilization of the body as an instrument necessitates understanding the purpose for which this instrument is to be used. It is important to realize that the human body is an instrument to facilitate right understanding & its actualization in life.

Q5 Explain how pre-conditioning can lead to unhappiness or or.
How do sensation & pre-conditioning influences our imagination. Give two examples.

Ans Preconditioning means we have consumed something about our desires on the basis of prevailing notion about it. They comes from what we read, see hear, what our parents tell us, our friends talk of what we see on the TV etc.

When our activities are not guided by our natural acceptance, then they are guided by preconditioning & sensation. Unless we verify our desires, we may not even know whether they are ours. We may end up spending an entire lifetime accumulating desires that are not ours, & in running about trying to fulfill them.

Sensation is a perception associated with stimulation of a sense organ or with a specific body condition; the sensation of heat; a visual sensation.

(A) Conflicts and contradictions in I as a result of Preconditioned desire -

Our thoughts, desires, expectations are not verified on basis of natural acceptance then they are conflicts. It affects -

(i) Wavering aspiration :- Our goal keep shifting as the inputs from the outside also keep changing.

our desires keep shifting, and these pre-conditioned desires may come from what we read, hear, see etc., we are always wavering in what we want; we are not able to be certain about it.

(ii) Lack of confidence: Since our desires are shaky, we are not able sure about them. As a result, we lack self confidence. Our confidence seems relative. i.e. we keep comparing ourselves with others.

(iii) Unhappiness: Our desires, thoughts are conflict, it becomes the cause for our unhappiness, leading to stress & tension. Such desires will also be in conflict with our natural acceptance.

(iv) Lack of Qualitative improvement in us: We focus largely on fulfilling the needs of body. As a result, we live with a sense of lack of fulfilment. It seems that only the things around us are changing.

(B) Short lived Nature of Pleasure from sensation

The pleasure obtained from sensation is short-lived. We have so much dependant on sensation that instead of giving us some sensory pleasure, it becomes the source for our happiness.

→ Happiness is continuous in I but sensation in body is temporary.

If our desire or thoughts and expectations are based on pre-conditionings, we are generally in a state of great sensation / confusion. It leads to unhappiness, conflict, stress, lack confidence, unfulfilled & unsettled feelings.
