Q1 Define ethics or professional ethics?

Ans Professional ethics are the principle or moral standards that guide behaviour in the workplace. They help professionals act with integrity, honesty, fairness and respect. These ethics ensure trust between professionals and the public, promote accountability and support responsible decision-making. Following professional ethics is essential for maintaining credibility, building strong relationships and achieving success in any career.

Q2 Describe the humanistic constitution?

Ans Humanistic constitution is a set of guiding principles and values based on human dignity, equality, justice, mutual respect, and peaceful coexistence. It focuses on ensuring harmony between individuals, society, and nature, promoting a life of well-being and fulfillment for all.

Q3 Describe the universal human order.

Ans The humanistic or Universal order is a vision of a peaceful, just and harmonious world, where:

- Individuals live with understanding & self-awareness.
- Families are based on love, trust & respect.
- Societies function with justice, cooperation & mutual support.
- Nations interact peacefully, respecting each other's sovereignty.
- Humans coexist with nature, ensuring balance & sustainability.

Q4 Write an essay on production system and management model?

Ans A production system transforms inputs (raw materials, labor, energy) into outputs (goods & services). It includes:

- (i) Job Production - Custom, one-off products
- (ii) Batch Production - Groups of similar items
- (iii) Mass Production - High volume, low-variety
- (iv) Continuous Production - Uninterrupted flow

A management model helps in planning, organizing, leading & controlling production activities. It incorporates strategies like Lean Manufacturing, Just-In-Time & Total Quality Management (TQM).

Modern model focus on sustainability, efficiency and human value, ensuring worker well-being, environmental care & ethical practice.
